Bay City Public Library has grown its services available to community members with disabilities, as well as continuing to offer regular programming for other underserved populations.

In May, the library partnered with Bay City ISD to offer a Child Find presentation on Students with Disabilities to share the resources available at the local ISD.

The Library offers CAD (Crafts for Adults with Disabilities) which typically includes a local disability care group and other members of the public with intellectual disabilities.

The Library also offers Creative Aging, a monthly art program for seniors.

In February, BCPL partnered with St. Mary’s University School of Law for a Tenant Rights Program.

Teen programming has seen an increase in participation in the weekly Teen Tuesday events. The library serves as the sole location for teen programming in the community outside of school, sports, and churches.
